STRATEGIC LEADERSHIP

In 2010, IBM conducted face to face interviews with over 1500 CEOs around the world. Their report revealed that

Today's complexity is only expected to rise, and more than half of CEOs doubt their ability to manage it.

Given our own experience with organizations and their senior leaders, finding new ways to think about organizational complexity and develop effective strategies is the hallmark of strategic leadership.

In this workshop you will:

- Explore different models and approaches for addressing complexity.
- Analyze your organization through a number of different lenses.
- Apply these models to your own decision making as a leader.
- Engage in activities designed to help you develop strategic thinking.
